The LEGEND

JUNE 1949

WEEQUAHIC HIGH SCHOOL

S. SHAFER

ANNE KLEIN

Foreword

THE foremost expression of man is music. Unlike languages, its appeal is not limited; music is the universal language. Fundamental in music, is the use of harmony; and just as harmony is essential to music, so it is the basic need among nations today. Music is within reach of all of us. Through its medium, the lives of people all over the world are enriched. A composer in one country may create a new symphony for appreciation by the entire world; so individuals must conceive ideas to cultivate international harmony.

This ideal has been uppermost in our thoughts during our four years at Weequahic High School. As we read this Legend, let us try to think of it as a mirror of our accomplishments and friendships, a record of our memories, as unforgettable as the songs we love. In the future, as in the past, we shall continue to strive for the common goal we must achieve—harmony.

MAXINE SKWIRSKY

MRS. DINA A. HIRSCH

Dedication

WE, the Class of June, 1949, wish to express our sincere gratitude for the counsel and understanding that Mrs. Hirsch has so cheerfully given to us. With fondest appreciation of her cooperation as class adviser, we are proud to dedicate our Legend to Mrs. Dina A. Hirsch.

Principal's message

TO MEMBERS OF THE CLASS OF JUNE, 1949

In accordance with the general theme of this yearbook, I'd like to extend to you the wish that your lives may all be like a pleasant melody, and that you may always live in harmony with your friends and neighbors and (most of all) with yourselves. This is a large class, and out of its ranks should spring talents and abilities of many sorts—doctors, lawyers, and teachers; perhaps a clergyman or two; a mayor and two or three authors, a couple of musicians, a sculptor, numerous good cooks, and, I hope sincerely, 315 first-rate citizens. My best wishes for success and happiness to you all!

Max J. Herzberg

As you go forward to take your places in the realm of business or in other institutions of learning, I wish for each of you a full measure of joy and contentment, courage to be ever true to yourselves and to meet difficulties unfalteringly, and a rich abundance of God's blessings.

Constance D. Bowerman

Assistant principals

I hope that you are all most successful in your "pursuit of happiness."

MRS. HELEN G. JACOBS

In memoriam

IN the midst of our happiness at graduation, we pause to pay tribute to Mrs. Helen Jacobs, who was a sincere and sympathetic friend to many of us. Her sudden death is a great loss to the faculty, the student body, and the school she served so well.

HIGH SCHOOL
MCMXXXII

A medley of memories

As we turn these pages over, we'll remember High School days
And the music which recalls them in so many different ways;

How the classes marched to Assembly to the beat the orchestra set,
And the songs that cheered our team at those games we can't forget.

Remember the Glee Club carols, how they echoed through the halls,
And the fun at the 3B Square Dance when we gamboled to the calls?

How our voices in the lunchroom drowned the music overhead,
And the fond farewells on Torch Day which left so much unsaid?

Remember the hours of dancing at the Hop we liked so well,
And the strains of music Prom Night, which cast their magic spell?

Remember the waiting in caps and gowns on Graduation Day
And how our pulses quickened as we heard that music play?

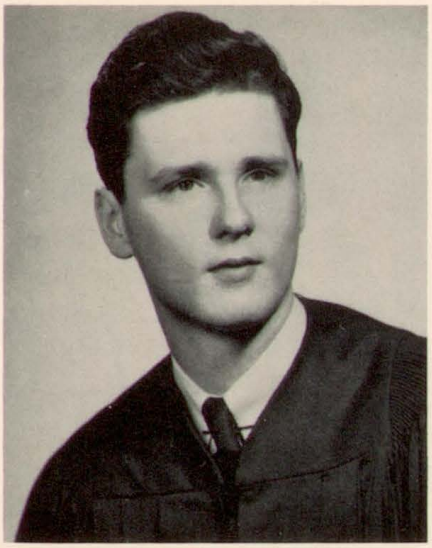

The years will find us parted, but wherever we may be,
A bar of music, a snatch of song, will bring a memory.

Reveal the memory of Schooldays,
Tales of friendship this Legend recalls.

LLOYDE GLICKEN

FAREWELL SONG

WEEQUAHIC THE BEAUTIFUL

I.

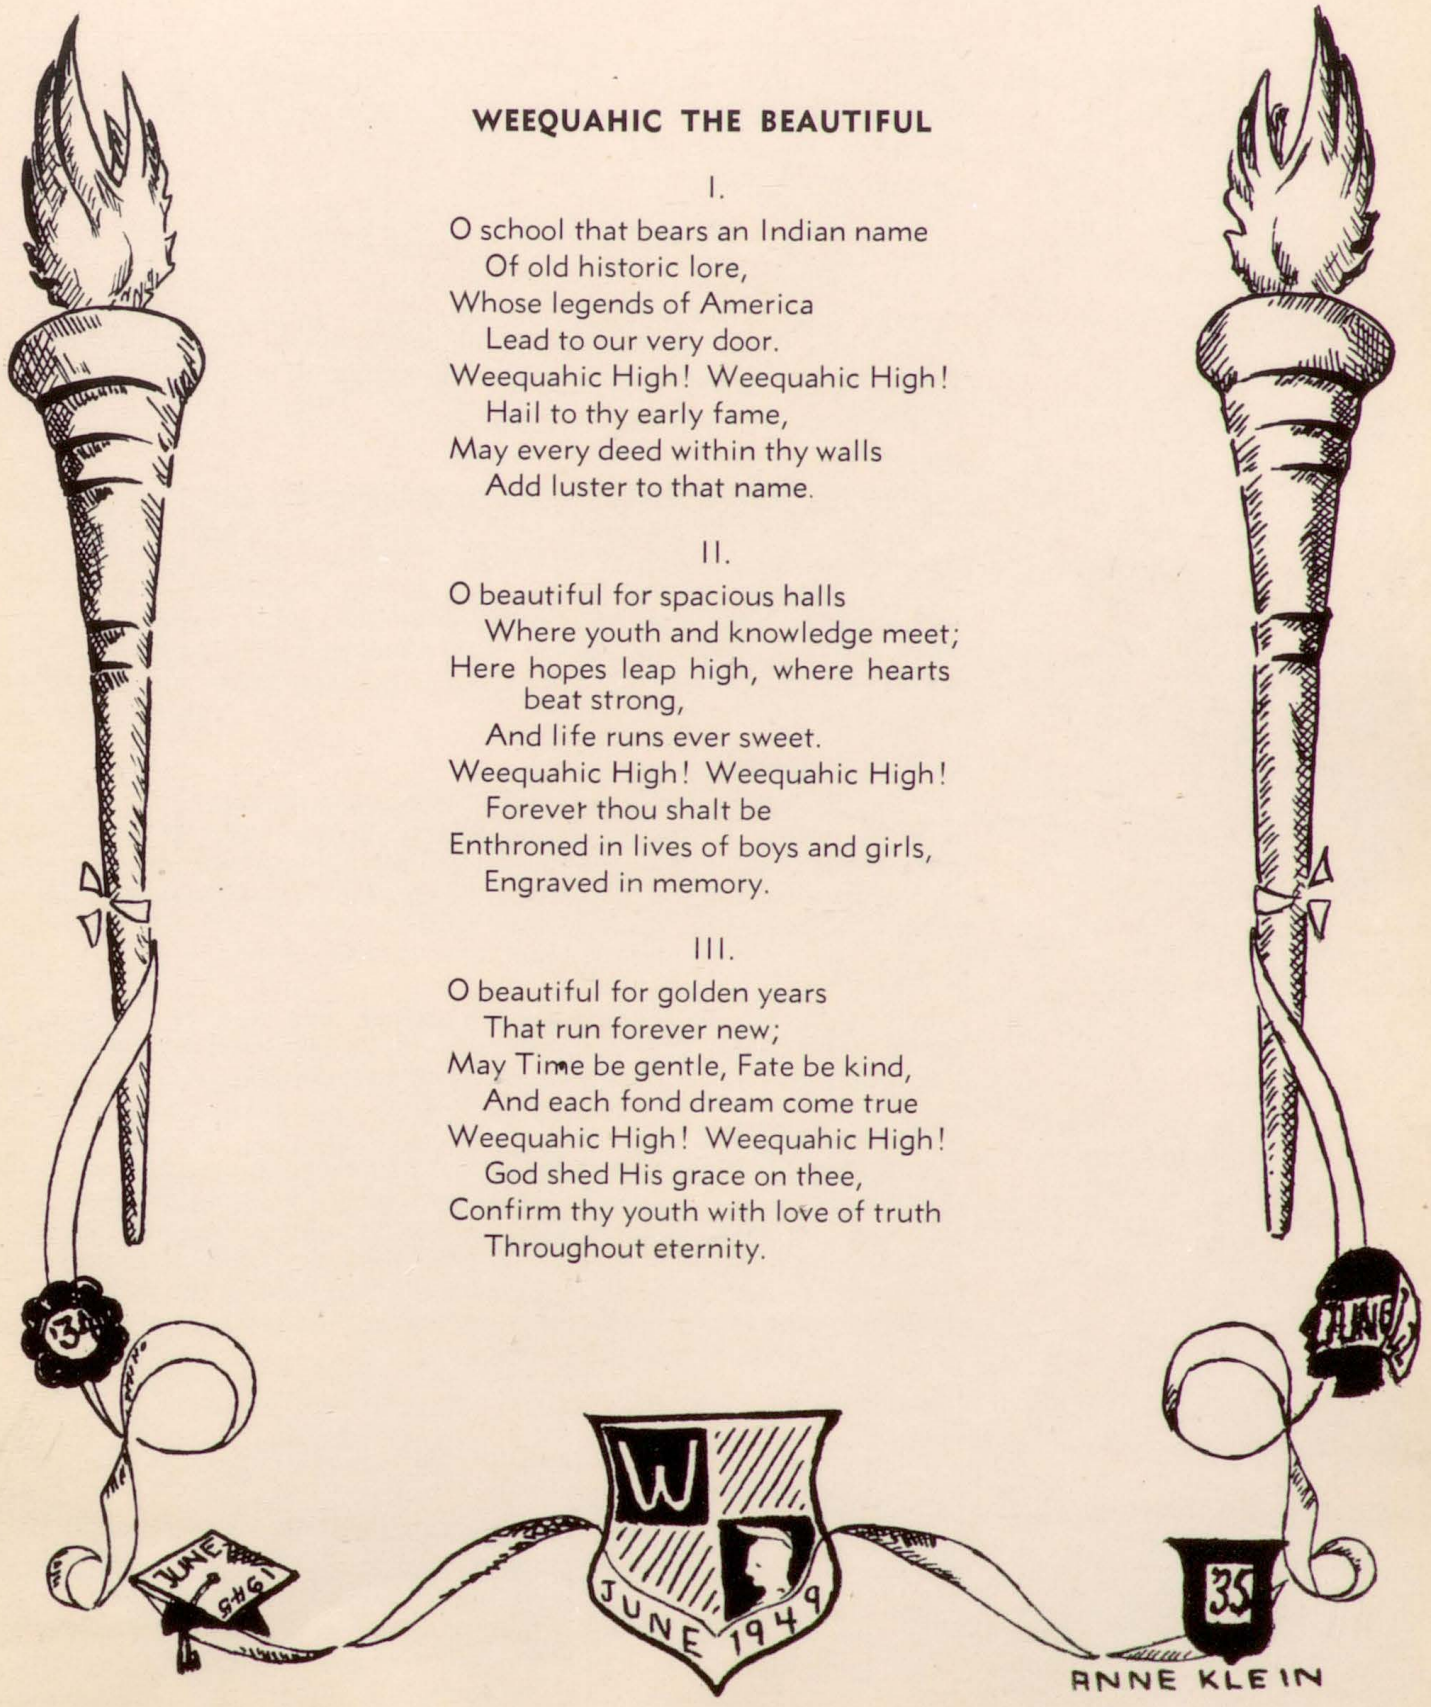

O school that bears an Indian name
Of old historic lore,
Whose legends of America
Lead to our very door.
Weequahic High! Weequahic High!
Hail to thy early fame,
May every deed within thy walls
Add luster to that name.

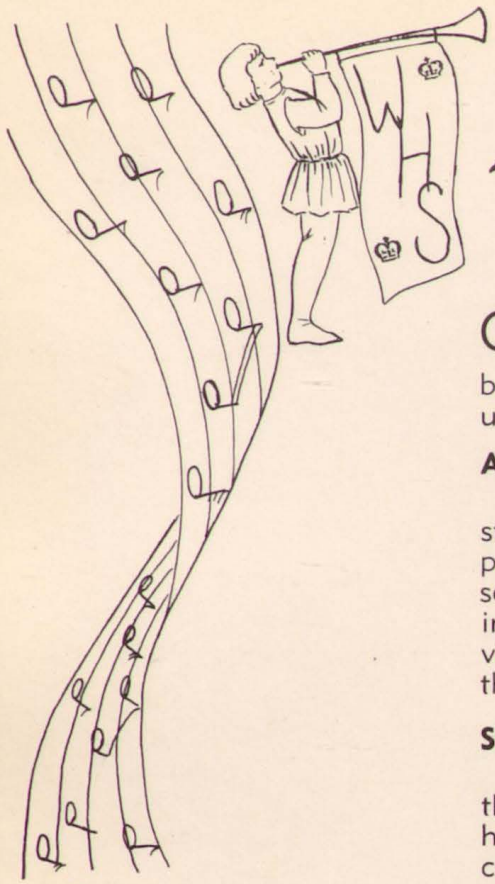

II.

O beautiful for spacious halls
Where youth and knowledge meet;
Here hopes leap high, where hearts
beat strong,
And life runs ever sweet.
Weequahic High! Weequahic High!
Forever thou shalt be
Enthroned in lives of boys and girls,
Engraved in memory.

III.

O beautiful for golden years
That run forever new;
May Time be gentle, Fate be kind,
And each fond dream come true
Weequahic High! Weequahic High!
God shed His grace on thee,
Confirm thy youth with love of truth
Throughout eternity.

As We Liked It

OUR opera opens on the history-making date of September the tenth in the year of our Lord, 1945. Serenity reigns everywhere. The furious battle of the world is over and the Age of the Atom has descended upon us.

ACT I, SCENE I

A brilliant red building, built by Lord Hawthorne, rises in center stage. The chorus and ballet within are revealed to the audience. Their proud, puffed chests are topped by bewildered faces. Suddenly a discord sounds! One of the king's royal subjects has been assaulted and jailed in the black locker of the gym. A search is made. Out of the chaos, a victorious aria is heard. Our hero, the Knight of Forty-nine, has found the gym!

SCENE II

As the curtain rises, we hear a triumphant refrain, revealing that the chorus now has the power that is vested in the upper frosh. As our hero dramatically points at an up-going 1B on a down-going stairway, a courtier appears, heralding the news of the three-day battle of water pistols that has been raging. But our hero soon puts an end to the battle which had spread to the castle. Alas, he is merely to taste of the tantalizing fruits of power, for soon he is to journey to the Celestial Palace on the Hill.

ACT II, SCENE I

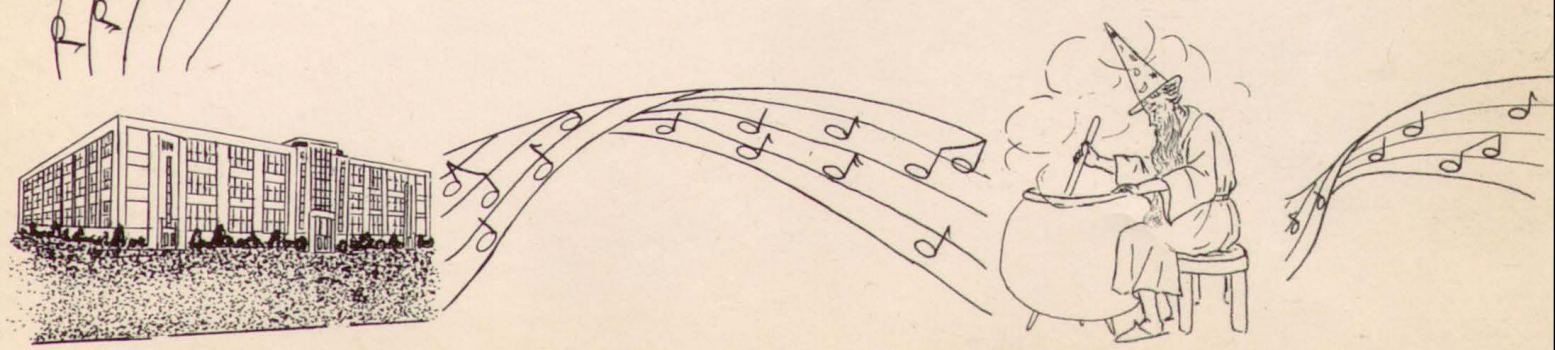

Again the hero is on the brink of a new adventure. A golden door parts. It is then that the villain appears, venom in his eyes, his manful chest hidden behind a sagamore badge. He approaches, hand extended. His resounding voice is lowered as he attempts to woo the heroine with an elevator pass.

SCENE II

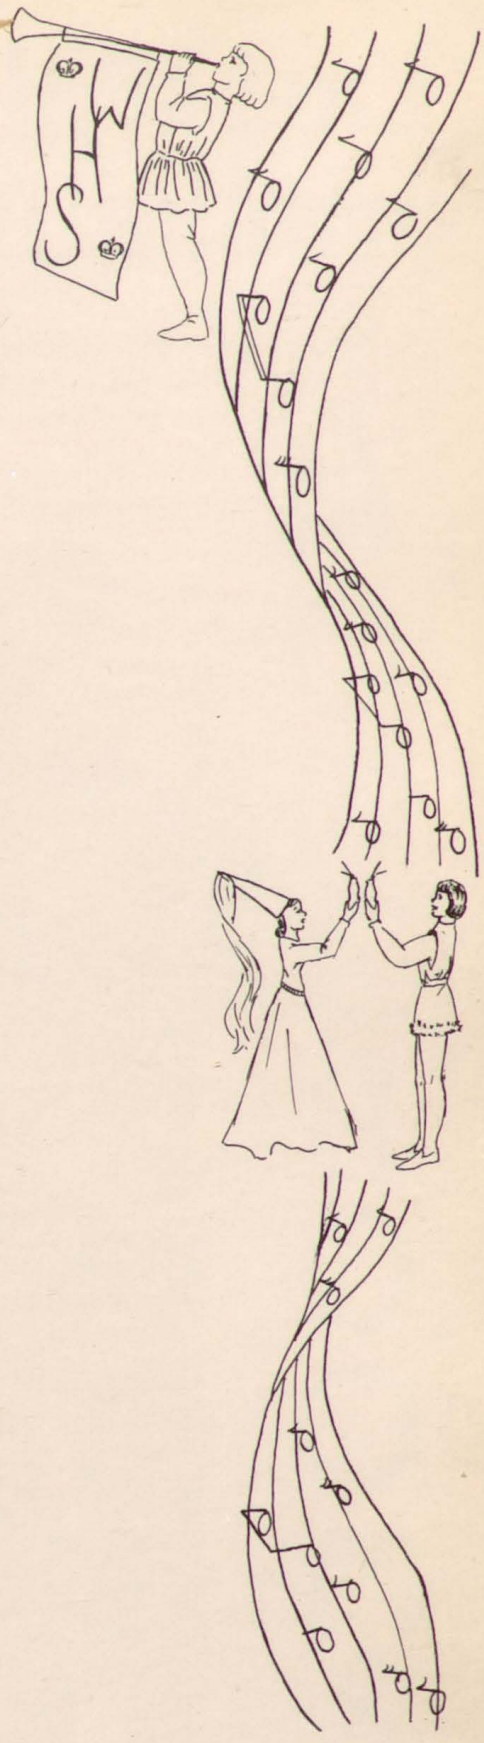

Five months of confusion have passed. Our hero is ill, for he has tasted of the nectar, brewed by the wizard, Sir Syd. The chorus brightens his dim state of mind by singing of the promise of 3B.

ACT III, SCENE I

A crowd is gathered in the royal ballroom. A courtier announces the new king, Levin by birth. Princess Bobbi is his adviser. Lady Elinor and Madame Leah are Chancellors of the Secretariat and the Exchequer. With the coming of the new ruler, the palace has been decorated in the placid pastels. A simple square dance is being held in the ballroom. An announcement is made of a performance of "Trial by Jury" which is to be given there in tribute to the new king.

—an operetta

SCENE II

Shocking news has overwhelmed the crowd. Lady Phyllis, the fifth cousin of her predecessor, has formed an alliance with Krafchick and taken over the Secretariat and the Exchequer. The latest proclamation is read. There is to be an arena built, which is to grace the Celestial Palace on the Hill. The chorus joins in, and the sound of Coke bottles is heard as it sings a drinking song to the new stadium.

ACT IV, SCENE I

The king has abdicated: Lord Marshall has ascended to the throne. Sir Louis has become his adviser. The two Ladies Miller have fought and the spoils have gone to Lady Bernice. A theater dance is to be held in commemoration of the victory. The Lords of 4A are to be invited by their underlings.

A crowd is seen gathered around the magicians, who have come from the Land of General Electric. The foreigners are to display their mystic powers in the king's royal entertainment room. The chorus sings a song to welcome them.

The song of the chorus is interrupted. All is hushed, for the Day of the Torch has come. A solemn hymn is sung as the noble ceremony proceeds. In the background, a glimpse of the arena in its awe-filling completion is seen.

SCENE II

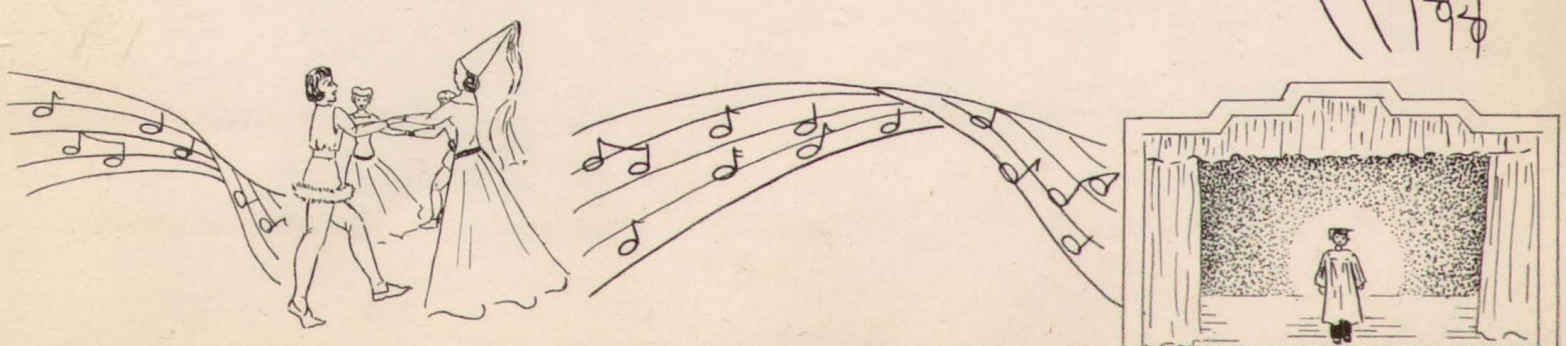

Preparations are being made for the great ball. The Day of the Grand Commencement is nearing. In the king's dining room, a music-making machine has been installed. The hero and heroine enter and sing a soft aria as they prepare to bid good-by to their Celestial Palace on the Hill. For the first time, their true feelings are revealed. Tear-stained faces are lowered. A prayer of hope is sung as the curtain descends.

EPILOGUE

The stage is darkened as a lone player appears. He is the royal sage, Duke Fisch. Soft music is heard and he speaks.

"This story is as yet unfinished, but this episode is closed in hope that the next act may be filled with as many smiles as were the first four. The discords, as well as the harmony, form only the prelude to the truly great performance, in which each is a hero or a heroine in his own right."

Last Will and Testament of the Graduating Class of June 1949

ON this day of June 22, 1949, being of willing mind, but weary body, we make known this, our last will and testament. We bequeath the following to our successors:

To the Freshmen: All old book reports and ponies and that grown-up feeling that comes with the annex.

To the Sophomores: A book entitled, "How to Train Freshmen," clearly plotting all corridors, lunchrooms, gyms, and swimming pools.

To the Juniors: Persuasive devices to be used for making collections from frugal students; all banners, campaign buttons, and signs to be contributed by 4A officers.

To the Class of January, 1950: The anticipation of becoming Senior A's, the worry of a prom date and of college, and the joy of graduation.

To the athletes: Report cards to be donated by our benevolent valedictorian.

To Mr. Max J. Herzberg: A specially built reception room equipped with a worry bird.

To Mr. Charles Schneider: A sheepskin coat to keep him warm while the boys run the mile in the dead of winter.

To Mrs. Reada Jellinek: A fund to substitute for the collection of book fines from reluctant seniors.

To Miss Anna Gerber, Mrs. Dina Hirsch, Miss Marion Wyckoff: A bottle of aspirin and our sincerest gratitude for helping us solve the problems of our four years.

To the student body: Balsa wood desks for the artistically inclined; a new set of thermometers which automatically register fever; the 14 bus with its plush seats and serene atmosphere; a 40 minute study period in which to do three hours of homework; Syd's special sandwiches with pickled detained slips.

To 4A Homeroom Teachers:
Relief! We leave - - - - - - - - -

In witness whereof we hereby set our seal on this day of June 22, in the year of our Lord, 1949.

Club notes

SEMI-annually, the Bamberger Medal, a simple gold shield, given to the senior who has done the most to benefit the school, is presented at graduation. Requisite to attainment of this honor, are extra-curricular activities as well as as a high standing in academic courses. Many students strive to attain this medal through participation in clubs, service activities, and various teams.

Several of the school's special services function through student management. To help make our assemblies successful, we have our stage crew. The use of visual aids in instruction would be impossible without the projection staff. A neat and orderly account of the borrowing and returning of books is the job of the library staff. Equally helpful, the banking staff has done a great deal to encourage students to become zealous savers. Finally, one of the most valuable of the service clubs is the ushering staff, without which no one would be able to find his seat at evening events.

We also have our graceful and animated twirling battalion, which looks well not only on a football field but also in music festivals and at parades. These twirlers have extended their duties to teaching grammar school girls their routines.

The Audubon Club, affiliated with the National Society, has done a great many interesting things, including naturalist activities, such as hiking to Weequahic Park, taking trips to the Museum of Natural History, and making charts with each day of the month for every student to fill in with the type of bird he saw that day. The science clubs are very helpful in aiding the students to think and to appreciate future scientific developments.

In addition, we have our Latin and Mathematics teams sent to New York University each year to compete with students from all over the country for the championship cups. They can be kept by the team's placing first, three times. The Mathematics team has won the cup twice and needs only one more victory.

Our language clubs have not been idle either. Both the French and German Clubs have displayed their mastery of the respective languages by presenting skits for assembly programs, and the latter has even broadcast over the Newark Board of Education station, WBGO.

As for culture, who could ask for more than the newly initiated Hebrew Culture Club, which teaches Hebrew dances, songs, and customs, and presents interesting films and speakers; the Dramatic Club, which recently presented an excellent play, Eugene O'Neill's "Ile"; and the Contemporary Club, designed to give students a chance to voice their opinions on recent problems in the form of debates and forums.

Last, but not least, we have our creative clubs in writing as well as art, which help the students to develop their creative skill. All of the clubs are run smoothly and harmoniously, and offer the student an opportunity to enhance his enjoyment of many hobbies and interests.

Class sport history

SINCE the entrance of the Class of June 1949, we have contributed many valuable and proficient players to the various school teams. During this period, Weequahic inaugurated the two sports of fencing and swimming and put out an all-city championship basketball team, amassing impressive records in all three sports. We also placed a number of men on the football, baseball, cross country, and track varsity teams, who were responsible for many of the wins in these fields.

In 1948 the city league basketball crown was decisively won by a victorious Weequahic five. Showing extraordinary speed, exceptional skill, and excellent coordination, the team piled up victory after victory to finish to the tune of 17 wins and 2 defeats. Charley Lubetkin's speed and fancy ball-handling coupled with Ken Klein's deadly eye were responsible for many wins. In addition to these two lettermen, Jay Lasker and Sandy Saunders were capable hoopsters who through their basketball know-how made many victories possible.

The football team had two difficult seasons in '48 and '49 but was a threat to all opposition and showed a drive, stamina, and capacity for punishment which very often put fear in the eyes of its adversaries. It was largely due to Sandy Saunders and Bob Weisman that the team possessed the fighting spirit which made it formidable to all foes. Sandy, playing fullback, was a bulwark of strength on both the defensive and offensive play. "Rapid Robert" provided the necessary speed to bring the ball deep into enemy territory. Fred Blonder, Herman Rothman, and Harold Schofel also performed very capably on the gridiron. The final curtain fell to find a weary but spirited eleven with a record of 1 win and 6 losses.

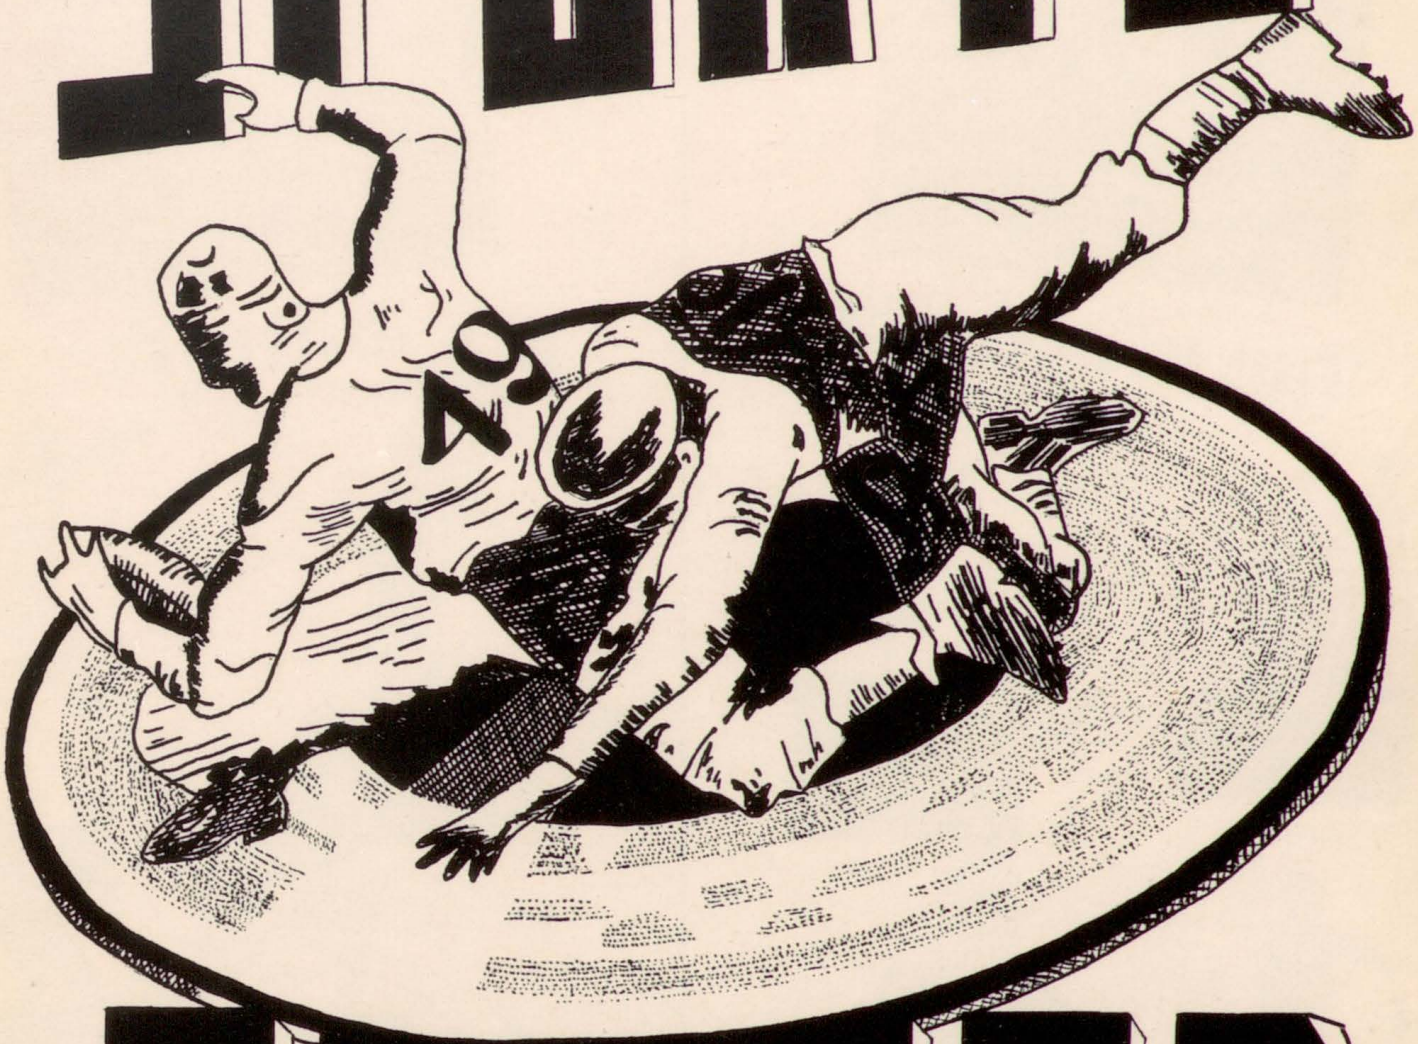

Our class also placed some very fine boys on the track team, which held its own in inter-state competition. Charley Lubetkin, Sam Marx, Izzy Slimowitz, and Louie Crescenzi were four of the mainstays on the team. The cross country squad put out very good corps in the past three seasons and showed heavy pluralities in the win column. Herbert Bernstein was the only man we placed on this team, but Herb's speed and endurance were qualities that made up for our lack of abundant entries.

The baseball team has placed men on the all city squad in 1947 and is unsurpassed for its fine sportsmanship and sports skill. Sandy Saunders and Jay Lasker are two members of the diamond-squad who played steady defensive ball and were threats to opposing mound corps.

Two embryonic sports in Weequahic are fencing and swimming. The fencing team was the most successful and short-lived team in Weequahic history. In its only season it had 10 wins and 1 defeat, and placed third in the state tournament. Three of our boys on this squad were Don Ridenour, Earle Ross, and Joe Fox. The record of 8 wins and 2 losses obtained during competition for the mythical title of '48 which the swimming team compiled is as equally impressive as that of the fencing team. Four mermen from our class are Jack Fisch, Arthur Carr, Alan Julian, and Walter Alina. These boys comprised the core of the team and were continually splashing in ahead of the opposition to carry away many meets.

Although we rapidly approach the grand finale of our high school career, we have complete confidence that these boys who have contributed so valuably in the past shall continue to perform well in the colleges of their choice.

BOXING, the manly art of self defense, has made its debut at Weequahic within the past few years. Tournaments, in which anyone with the proper weight and health requirements could enter, have been held in our gym, and with fists flying and much urging on the part of the spectators, they have provided both entertainment for the fans and experience for the participants. Those boys who were fortunate enough to emerge victorious from their battles received a boxing "W" for their efforts.

Jay Lasker and Sandy Saunders.

TWO baseball lettermen who will be missing from the line-up next season are Sandy Saunders and Jay Lasker. Both these boys have played capably on the diamond and have contributed valuably to Coach Schneider's squad. When Sandy is not standing formidably at the plate, harassing the opposing mound corps, he can be found prancing around at center field. Jay's position is at the mound, and he also possesses ability as a batter. We can expect to see these boys playing college ball in the not too distant future.

THE 1948-49 Weequahic swimming team, only in its second year, turned in a remarkable performance this season. The won and lost record of 8 victories and 2 defeats was a definite improvement over last year's record. Our natators took second place in the dual meets with other Newark schools and second place in the all-important city contest. Both the student body and Coach Skippy Stein can certainly be proud of the team's performances this year, and we can also look forward to future seasons of equal success.

Girl letter winners

ATHLETICALLY-MINDED girls who have earned "W's" for meritorious sport work are Frances Berg, Judith Blumenfeld, Melicent Brams, Jo Doris, Sydelle Feinseth, Elsie Flagg, Rhoda Fox, Judith Goldstein, Meryl Gordon, Bobbi Grubman, Harriet Henick, Lillian Mantell, Elinor Miller, Barbara Morgenstein, Lois Newman, Adele Plotkin, Beverly Rappaport, and Gilda Resnick. Two of these disciples of Diana who will also receive pins are Lois Newman and Lillian Mantell.

In order to merit a "W" or a pin, 1,000 or 1,500 points are required respectively. Points are earned in the gym class itself for perfect attendance, leadership, initiative, and good classwork. Others may be obtained by belonging to the various gym clubs after school, some of which are volley-ball, basketball, softball, badminton, archery, and soccer. This program promotes good leadership, sportsmanship, and health. It also helps to bring about cooperation in group participation.

We can certainly be proud of these girls, for not only have they done well athletically but also they have kept up a good scholastic rating.
